

Tall Man lettering: References relating to www.hgsc.govt.nz/our-programmes/medication-safety/publications-and-resources/publication/1281

1. Australian Commission on Safety and Quality in Healthcare. 2011. Evaluating the effect of the Australian List of Tall Man Names. Sydney: Australian Commission on Safety and Quality in Health Care. URL: www.safetyandquality.gov.au/wp-content/uploads/2014/01/Evaluating-the-Effect-of-the-Australian-List-of-Tall-Man-Names.pdf (accessed 19 January 2012).
2. Darker IT, Gerrett D, Fllik R, et al. 2011. The influence of 'Tall Man' lettering on errors of visual perception in the recognition of written drug names. Ergonomics 54(1): 21–33.
3. Fllik R, Purdy K, Gale A, et al. 2004. Drug name confusion: evaluating the effectiveness of capital ("Tall Man") letters using eye movement data. Social Science and Medicine 59: 2597–601.
4. Gerrett D, Gale A, Darker IT, et al. 2009. Final Report of the Use of Tall Man Lettering to Minimise Selection Errors of Medicine Names in Computer Prescribing and Dispensing Systems: NHS Connecting for Health 2009.
5. Fllik R, Purdy K, Gale A, et al. 2006. Labelling of Medicines and Patient Safety: Evaluating Methods of Reducing Drug Name Confusion. Human Factors 48(1): 39–47.
6. Fllik R, Price J, Darker IT, et al. 2010. The Influence of Tall Man Lettering on Drug Name Confusion - A Laboratory-Based Investigation in the UK Using Younger and Older Adults and Healthcare Practitioners. Drug Saf 33: 677–87.
7. David U, Cohen MR. 2011. A tall man lettering project to enhance medication safety. Farmacia hospitalaria 35(5): 223–4.
8. Gabriele S, Hyland S, Gosbee LL, et al. 2012. Visual Differentiation in Look-alike Medication Names. Report to the Canadian Patient Safety Institute.